DIET KITCHENS.

One of the Noblest of New York's Manifold Charities—Ninety Thousand Pints of Milk for the Sick Poor—Sample Applicants for Aid.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

New York is a wicked city enough, probably. It may be that it rather prides itself on its naughtiness, as being necessary to its reputation as a city of the world. Be that as it may, there is something else for which the great city is also noted, and more to its credit. That is, its great and noble charities. It is said that money sufficient can be raised here for any and every good purpose, everything but the Bartholdi pedestal fund, that is. We must always except that. The money for the Bartholdi statue comes under the head of æsthetic patriotism, perhaps, and we don't pretend to go in for that to any great extent. But in the breadth and system of its organized charities, it its wisely-conducted benevolent enterprises, the city sets an illustrious example to Paris and London even. An English newspaper not long since said in plain words that London would do well to copy New York charities. Coming, as it does, from an Englishman, who is apt to think everything British is right and everything un-British is wrong, the compliment is one to be appreciated.

It was especially in reference to the New York diet kitchens for the sick poor that the London paper spoke. They were organized eleven years ago. If the question were asked how they are supported, the answer would be "All sorts of ways." There are legacies, donations, and voluntary contributions, with a small appropriation at times from the city. The organization is called "The New York Diet Kitchen Association." Any one who pays an annual sum of $5 or upward becomes a member of the society. Its membership includes both men and women, but its affairs are managed wholly by ladies. The clear-headed way in which they have conducted its business, the incalculable good they have done in the eleven years the organization has existed, is a speaking proof of the ability of women. The President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, and all the officers, are ladies, with simply the usual ornamental advisory board of men. Prominent physicians of New York are on this board, and testify to the benefit the kitchens have been to the sick poor.

The society's object is to furnish suitable diet to the destitute in times of illness. The principal articles of diet are beef tea and milk. Beyond a doubt many a life has been saved by the timely nourishment afforded through this charity.

The kitchens are closely connected with the free medical dispensaries of the city. The poor apply to these for treatment and medicine. The physician examines them. If they are unable to secure proper diet, the dispensary doctor gives them a ticket to the matron of the diet kitchen. The requisition directs the matron to furnish to——, living at No. ——, a quart or more of beef tea or milk, or whatever else is needed, for a given space of time, usually one week. On the requisition are printed conspicuously the words:

"Take a clean vessel with you to the kitchen."

Unfortunately poverty is very dirty. Why, it is hard to tell.

The matron takes the ticket and supplies the demand. If this were all, it would be rather an easy matter to humbug the kitchens and obtain food and dainties fraudulently. Human nature is not a bit too good to do the like. But here a wise check is put upon imposture. The kitchens are only open certain hours of the day. After that it is made the duty of the matrons to make personal visits to the addresses the charity patients have given and carefully look into their situation. This provision is a most admirable one. Busy doctors have little time to go about prying into the poverty or wealth of their charity patients, particularly doctors who attend the hundreds applying daily at the dispensaries. Besides, a woman's eye will see more of what is going on in a room at one glance than a man would in an hour. This rule is faithfully carried out. Sometimes a matron makes as many as seventeen or eighteen visits of an afternoon. It is not a paradisaical excursion—this climbing the dark, unclean stairs of tenement-houses, and poking one's nose into the dens in which the New York poor exist. The matrons are paid a little over $400 a year. They earn their money.

OVER MOUNTAIN HEIGHTS.

A Steamer Transported Forty Miles On Man's Shoulders in British Columbia.

[Spokane Falls Chronicle.]

A remarkable feat is now being carried out by a young Englishman representing a party of English capitalists who have acquired a large block of land from the British Columbia Government in the exquisitely beautiful lower Kootenai valley, lying just over the northern confines of Idaho, where the international boundary line separates the waters of Pen d'Oreille Lake and Kootenai river. This pass, traversed by a narrow Indian trail, which winds through the almost impenetrable forests that clothe this great spur of the Rocky Mountains, known as the Clarke's fork range, has never been passed by a wagon, and now a steamer, the hulk built of teak in one piece, is to be spirited across this mountain barrier for a distance of forty miles. A large force of Indians belonging to the Kootenai tribe, a race that has as yet remained perfectly untouched by civilization, and who have never seen a white woman, have been engaged, together with ten or twelve white men, to help in the work.

The little steamer has seen much travel. Built last year on the banks of the placid Bee, she washes the Roman walls of beautiful Chester, one of England's oldest cities, she made a summer trip to the rock-bound coast of Norway, where her owners explored some of the most inaccessible fiords of that picturesque coast, bent on salmon fishing and bear hunting. Brought back to England, she left Liverpool safely stowed away on the deck of the Polynesia, one of the ocean leviathans, May 21. Landed at Montreal, she was placed on the deck of one of the large propellers running from that point to the western extremity of the great lakes, Duluth, when after passing through some one hundred and fifty locks that make navigation through the great lakes possible, and after a narrow escape from being wrecked on a hidden rock, on which the propeller struck one dark night heavily, she safely reached the latter port, when she was immediately placed on a flat car, on which, after being placed in bond to enable her to pass through the United States, she began the long journey of 1,500 miles over the Northern Pacific line to Sand Point, on Lake Pend d'Oreille.

FARMS AND GARDENS

As They May Be Found Within the Limits of Gotham.

Spots in the Metropolis Where Nature Still Lingers—New York's Settlement of Market Gardeners—Shantytown.

[American Agriculturist.]

There are many lanes on the maps of the city of New York, but the only thing rural about them is their names. There are, however, in this city of wonderful contrasts of the miseries and splendors of modern life, certain spots in which nature still lingers. Our city farms are not nearly as numerous now as twenty years ago. But there are some left yet, even in the heart of the city, and within the far-reaching limits of Gotham thousands of acres still return their yearly crops in produce instead of rents. There are old farms and peaceful pastures, and among them people who lead pleasant rural lives, environed by the turbulent multitude that pursues fortune with a feverish fury, in factories and stores, and the great marts of commerce and speculation. People who are not New Yorkers picture the metropolis as one monumental mass of brick, and stone, and iron, with enough timber thrown in here and there to make a roaring fire once in a while. They know that there are some parks, great and small, among these rows of houses, but there, as far as they know, the touch of nature which brightens and purifies the city, ends.

Among the rocky undulations of Manhattanville, agriculture still holds its own. There is quite an extensive settlement of market gardeners on the west side of the city, between Central park and North river. There are farmers here who live in the same houses and till the same soil their grandfathers lived in and tilled nearly a century ago. The improvement in the city has made their land worth as much a foot as it once was worth an acre. The old farm-house at Manhattanville, the district above Central park and near the Hudson river, was built over a hundred years ago. Two miles further on, at Washington Heights, the upper end of Manhattan island, is Snider's lane, a country road around the side of a hill, with a great row of tenement houses and French flats at one end of it, and a cornfield at the other. Within a quarter of a mile of Snider's lane, the life of the metropolis bustles and seethes. From its highest point you can see the myriad gas lamps and the electric lights of the city gleam and flash at night. Yet for half a mile or so along its peaceful length, you may wander in solitude, and forget, amid the rustle of leaves, and the songs of birds, that there is such a place as New York.

Washington Heights is full of nooks where a metropolitan dweller may be surrounded by quiet rural life. The denizens of certain sections of Harlem can look out of their windows in summer, and imagine themselves in the country, until the jingling street cars, or the clanking elevated trains, dissipate the pleasant fancy. Beyond the Harlem river, and still within the city limits, which extend for four miles and take in the village of Fordham, perched on its wooded hills, New York exhibits a strange alternation of city and country. A couple of minutes walk from High Bridge, in full sight of its crowded picnic gardens, overlooking the Harlem filled with pleasure boats, and with rows of houses along the road, a solitary little lane leads to a farm as solitary, and out of the way among its orchard trees, as if it was in the Berkshire hills. The family who occupy this farm, have lived here since the commencement of the present century.

Jerome avenue is one of the liveliest thoroughfares in New York. It leads from the Harlem river to the famous Jerome Park race course, near Fordham. Yet there are scores of farms whose lanes lead out into the bustling street. One of these farms is quite famous for sheep, and on others blooded horses and cattle are raised. One of the loveliest lanes in the city is along Jerome avenue, leading over the Fordham hills towards the old city of Yonkers. In Tremont, nearer the city, in Morrisania and Mott-Haven, you find the country elbowing the city. Below the Harlem river, where land is more valuable, the city farmer cultivates vegetable crops. On the other side he grows larger produce. The gardeners south of the Harlem, are not as a rule, the owners of the land. They commonly hold it on long leases from old estates, and as the leases expire, the owners oust the tenants and build at once. In consequence of this, you will often find an enormous French flat towering alongside of a picturesque little cottage, or a rude shanty. There is one spot where a vast flat occupies each corner of a block, and between the two is an old farm house, shaded by huge elm trees, and with its narrow strip of land covered with hot-beds, running through the block from street to street.

Apart from the real city farms, there are whole blocks of waste land, so rocky as to be useless for the cultivator, on which the famous squatters of the metropolis have built up that curious community known far and wide as Shantytown—a collection of huts built in the rudest and cheapest way, chiefly of odds and ends of lumber. Its dwellers are laboring men, carters and the like, humble, but useful toilers. The principal industry of Shantytown is goat-breeding, and since goat's milk has become a fashionable beverage, the bulk of New York's supply comes from here. With the great activity in building, however, Shantytown is steadily and surely becoming a thing of the past.

One of the most curious of our city farms, is that of the penitentiary on Blackwell's island. On it are raised the vegetables used in the prison. The warden of the island is the farmer, and the convicts his laborers. They present a melancholy appearance in their striped suits working among the fields, but not nearly so much so as do the lunatics on the Ward's Island farm. These poor wretches are employed in the kitchen garden of the asylum, and the doctors say the air and exercise are highly beneficial to them. Another very odd farm is on a rock in the East river, near Hell Gate. It is about half an acre in extent, and from the vegetables produced, and the fish caught, the family who have lived here for over forty years, subsist. These hermits of the metropolis are a brother and two sisters. They live in their little castle surrounded by the waters, and apparently enjoy life thoroughly.

The Iron Industry in the South.

[Chicago Herald.]

While the iron mills in the north are nearly all idle or running half time in consequence of the stagnation in trade, the most prosperous industry in the south-to-day is the iron manufacturing business. There has not been a single furnace closed this year. And an extraordinary fact in connection with it is that the iron furnaces are nearly all running on orders received from north of the Ohio river.

The Terminus Settled!

Vancouver the Fixed Terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

THE TIMES to-day, on the best possible authority, makes the important announcement that the terminus question of the Canadian Pacific railway, on this coast, has at last been settled and Coal Harbor the fortunate locality. For some time past it was known in certain circles that such a result was inevitable. The delay in making the announcement was occasioned by affliction in MR. VAN HORNE's family.

All the papers and documents relating to the agreements between the Provincial Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company have been ratified by the Board of Directors, sealed and attested and will be forwarded here without delay.

MAJOR ROGERS, in the course of a week or two, will lay out the new line to Coal Harbor. Clearing and grading will be proceeded with at once.

An authorized agent of the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company will leave Montreal at once, reaching here within the next ten days, to act on behalf of the company in all matters relating to the terminal improvements.

The HON. DONALD A. SMITH and R. B. ANGUS have been appointed trustees on behalf of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, in whom the real estate will be vested and through whom the terminal bonds, agreements and titles will be issued.

Now that this vexed question has been settled, it is to be hoped that the languor and uncertainty that has prevailed so long will give place to energy and enterprise, and that many of those who have hitherto complained for want of work will find employment, be they mechanics or artizans, for it is quite certain that there will be much required at the terminal city to render it adequate to the trade certain to be poured into its lap ere this time next year. Vancouver may now be regarded as the future metropolis on the Mainland.

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Ottawa Free Press recently waited on Mr. Vankoughnet, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, and made enquiry as to the Indian troubles in British Columbia. Mr. Vankoughnet said that so far they were confined to Metlakahtla, and partook of the nature of a religious squabble, consequently the Federal Government did not deem it desirable to interfere. The dispute took the shape of a provincial grievance and to deal with it was the duty of the Local Government. In regard to depriving both Bishop Ridley and Mr. Duncan of their commissions all parties were pretty much agreed as to that being the correct thing. This is the recommendation made in these columns a few weeks since. It appears to be the only solution to this difficulty.

THE Calgary Nor'-Wester demands that Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney be provided with an executive to aid him in the administration of Northwestern affairs. At present the lieutenant-governor is provided with an executive council, duly sworn to secrecy, etc. But a majority of those composing this remarkable body have decided to their own satisfaction that they can only act when called upon by him to do so, and then probably only in such manner as he may think fit. As the lieutenant-governor has not so far as known yet seen a necessity for their valuable aid, it is likely that he at least will scarcely appreciate the Nor'-Wester's friendly zeal, while the truly loyal executive councillors will hardly relish the Nor'-Wester's ignoring their existence.

NORTHWEST REPRESENTATION.

The people in the Northwest—that portion of Canada lying between British Columbia and Manitoba—are agitating very strongly for representation in the Dominion Parliament. These claims are just and must very shortly receive attention from the Ottawa authorities. During the past two years a large immigration has reached that country and spread over the fertile plains. One hundred miles or more, north and south of the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the houses of the settler can be seen, some built on the broad prairie, as if bidding defiance to the fierce northern blasts or merciless blizzards; some on the fertile banks of a little river, while others can be seen peeping out from the friendly shelter of some woodland "bluff." These settlers do not represent a class of wandering adventurers or ignorant foreigners; they are drawn from the ranks of thrifty artizans, of the mother country, the sturdy yeomens of the other Canadian provinces, and the enterprising Americans. Along the line of the railway towns and cities are springing up with marvelous rapidity. Prince Albert, Regina and Calgary have now populations of over 1000, while Moose Jaw, Broadview, Qu'Appelle, Moosomin and some others can each number several hundreds of permanent residents. These people are certainly entitled to a voice in all legislation which affects them, and the presence at Ottawa of a few representative men who could give proper information, would do much to check the passing of inappropriate laws which are made by men ignorant of the true situation, and portion of that vast inheritance. The interests of all the provinces between the western boundary of Ontario and the Pacific ocean being identical an effort should be made for united action by the peoples' representatives to Ottawa. To a considerable degree they would control both parties as the balance of power would be in their hands and thus be enabled to insist on a recognition of the claims to which this future "lesser Britain" is so justly entitled. The other provinces are asking for "better terms," they should ask for better legislation as regards the tariff and government land laws.

THE Edmonton Bulletin repudiates the old idea that Canada purchased the Northwest and therefore may do as she likes with the territory. The notion is an exploded one. Canada did not purchase the Northwest from the Hudson Bay Company for the remarkably sufficient reason that the company did not own it. Canada has acquired control of the Northwest under the British crown, but this does not carry with it the right to treat the inhabitants otherwise than as members of confederation. Indeed, when the act of the British parliament empowered Canada to erect provinces in the Northwest was passed it was thoroughly understood, although not specially mentioned in the act, that such provinces should same footing as the provinces already comprised in the confederation.

CANADIANS are a heavy taxed people. The Buffalo, N.Y., Express in referring to our financial position remarks: Canada's revenue for the fiscal year which closed June 30th last was $32,000,000. This is a tremendous amount to raise from a population not so large as that of the State of Pennsylvania by general taxation. Allowing as much more for local taxation which is a low estimate we have about $16 per capita for the whole population of all ages. This taxation is so excessive as to be hardly compatible with prosperity. All of the $32,000,000 of revenue was spent except $800,000.

MCKAY & Co., one of the largest milling firms in Canada receive three quarters of their wheat supply from Duluth. This year they got thirty thousand bushels from Manitoba marked number one special hard. The first shipment arrived two days ago. On examination it turned out that it not only suffered from smut and growth, but was too soft to make bakers' flour, for which it was intended. The firm have assured a correspondent that it was not nearly equal to Minnesota No. 2. They will have to use the entire shipment for family use. McKay & Co. are thoroughly disappointed.

THE Canadian millers are daily petitioning the Government to have the duties on American wheat and flour imported into Canada assimulated. There are now duties of 50 cents on a barrel of flour and 15 cents on a bushel of wheat. The duty on wheat is too large for that on flour, so that it pays to import flour rather than wheat for milling. Milling throughout the country is therefore in a bad condition, and many firms have gone to the wall. The sole reason given by the Government to the numerous delegations for not reducing the duty on wheat is that such action would be detrimental to the wheat trade of the Northwest, which is supposed to find a market in eastern Canada.

THE Washington Republican says: "Many sections of the south are "agin the government" because the government insists on collecting internal revenue taxes. They will speedily turn against the Democrats in the event of a change of administration for the same reason, and that may result in a smashing of the solid south. The moonshiners will not be counted out. They are on the shoot, and, besides, they are adepts themselves in that line of politics peculiar to southern states."

OLD Country people are getting cheap sugar, these days; granulated, we are told, can be bought at retail in England for two pence half penny the pound. This is probably made in New York, for the English seemingly do not make granulated. The present price in New York, 6¼ cents, with a draw-back for export of 3.46 cents might easily enable an ocean freight to be paid and sale made in Britain at two pence.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—On and after December 1st trains Nos. 1 and 2, of the Union Pacific road, will contain through cars for the Pacific Coast. They will go by the Oregon Short Line, leaving Omaha at the usual time and reaching Granger at 11 a. m. the next day, and arriving at Huntington, the terminus of the Oregon Short Line, at noon of the second day. At the latter point the line of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company begins. The train will make close connections and reach Portland at 8:10 o'clock on the following morning.

Crushed to Death.

Special dispatch to THE TIMES.

YALE, Nov. 25.—Yesterday morning at the end of the track, six miles below Ashcroft, John McCarthy, who is about 30 years of age, a native of Fort Elgin, New Brunswick, was killed by a log becoming displaced and rolling down an enbankment upon him.

THE COLUMBIA CROSSING.

(Condensed from the Calgary Herald.)

Considerable liquor has been seized by the police lately.

The tote road is now several miles beyond the summit of the Selkirks.

Things are a trifle lively here sometimes, owing to there being so much whiskey in the town.

The C. P. R. sidings are nearly finished. The site is one of the most picturesque in the neighborhood.

Ross & Lukes have commenced tunnelling their mine, located about four miles northwest of this place.

Men are already beginning to pull out for Second Crossing. Messrs. Ingram, Ben Rood and two others have started for that place. They intend planting potatoes and turnips next spring.

On the 30th ult. fifteen prisoners were taken to Golden City to be tried by Cap. Steele. The majority were drunks. It is really amusing to see how quarrelsome men suddenly become like lambs when touched on the shoulder by the police.

Damp, hazy weather prevails here at present, interspersed with occasional showers and sunshine. A few days since a heavy thunder storm occurred, and then the dirt roofs caught fits. It is generally thought that we will have a very open winter.

The item most speculated about is the prospective price of provisions, which, as the railroad company refuse to bring goods for outsiders, bids fair to be very high indeed.

A few miles west of the town large boulders obstruct the course of the water, forming dangerous rapids. Last week three men endeavored to run them on a raft, the result being the wreck of the raft and the drowning of one man. Kitchen's men are now blasting the boulders in order to allow provision boats to pass down.

Most of the prospectors have now come in, and as far as can be learned at present Quartz Creek, twelve miles west of Crossing, has the best indications of gold. A number of men have made good wages placer mining there, and a good many quartz claims have been staked out. One company have decided to work their claim this winter.

Presentation to the Rev. Percival Jenns.

Yesterday morning, the boys attending St. John's College, at school in the Dux presented him with a piece of plate as a birthday present and as an expression of their good wishes and feelings to their master and friend.

There has been quite a striving among the boys for "Dux" this week, as it was arranged that the head of the fourth form should speak for the others and hand up the letter and present.

The tone of the affair brings to mind the happy understanding between the late Mr. Arnold and his boys, in good old Rugby days. The following is the letter which accompanied the presentation:—

"ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, VICTORIA, B.C.
November 24th, 1884.

TO THE REV. PERCIVAL JENNS, M.A.:

The boys of St. John's on this your birthday desire to wish you very many happy and prosperous returns, and in so doing we take the opportunity of expressing our feelings of love and respect towards you, as our principal and teacher; our full appreciation of your unvarying attention to our educational requirements, and the impartial and kindly tempered judgment which characterizes our intercourse.

At the same time we respectfully present to you the accompanying piece of plate, which, though not as intrinsically valuable as we wish, yet we feel sure you will accept, taking 'the will for the deed;' and we hope as you look upon it in the future, when in the ordinary course of events, we shall have passed from your care, you will be able to think of the donors with satisfaction, as manly examples of your judicious training.

In conclusion we hope, (D.V.) that good health and happiness may be long enjoyed by yourself, Mrs. Jenns and all your family.

THE BOYS OF ST. JOHN'S."

Mr. Jenns in replying, thanked the boys for their present, and said it was good of them to remember his birthday; that he would value the present highly during his life, and that it was all he could wish for. That the letter was a credit to them and that it would make an ornament for his study. After again thanking them, he stated that the best he could do on his birthday was to give them a whole holiday. The announcement was received with three cheers for Mr. Jenns and three more for Mrs. Jenns and the little Jennses, and the boys trooped off to enjoy their holiday.

Skagit Iron Mines.

J. J. Conner has returned from up-Sound. He says that Mr. Davis, of the English Iron Company, has returned to Tacoma and daily expects the arrival of members of the firm. The present expectation is that the smelting works will be erected at Tacoma, but Mr. Conner thinks the ultimate decision will be to erect them on the Skagit river. The Skagit ore is the only bed on the Sound that the company will use, and experience shows it an advantage to make the pig in the field where coal and lime are as convenient as they are here.—Skagit News.

All Rail to the Northwest.

In a recent article the Canadian Gazette, of London, England, says: All who are concerned in the Canadian Pacific Railway, or emigration to the Canadian Northwest, will be glad to hear that Mr. Van Horne, the general manager, and one of the vice presidents of the line, is now quite satisfied that the Lake Superior section will be completed in March next, and that in and after April next traffic will be booked right through from Quebec or Montreal to the Northwest without change of any sort. Thus have the Canadian Pacific Company once more advanced upon their most sanguine expectations.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—The two steamers from the Sound today were crowded with passengers.

—Eastern Canadian papers are now boycotting all entertainments whose managers forget to advertise.

—The Amelia and Enterprise had a heavy passenger list from Nanaimo and way ports to-day.

—Two persons who were summoned as petit jurors were not present to answer to their names, and were fined $100 each.

—To-night is the last performance of Miss Kate Castleton and her most excellent company. "Pop" is the play to be given.

—The Yosemite took up a large number of passengers this morning, many of them going to work on the railway buildings.

—The Dominion Government has revoked the order prohibiting the use of sternwheel steamers during the winter months.

—Mr. Charles F. Clancy, of Seattle, has brought a portion of his stock to Victoria, for the purpose of opening a branch livery stable in this city.

—Owing to the crowded condition of our third page to-day it was necessary to run a portion of local news on the second page.

—Carpenters and other tradesmen are arriving in Victoria daily from across the line, attracted by the large amount of work now going on in this province.

—The old steamer Beaver, which has been at anchor in the upper end of the harbor for the past few months, has been beached, owing to her leaking condition.

—Commencing with last Sunday the steamers for Victoria left Tacoma at 8 o'clock p. m. instead of 10 o'clock, as heretofore. The change will be permanent.

—Owing to the repairs now being made to the roadway leading to the landing place of the Sound boats, hacks are not allowed inside of the gates, as they interfere with the workmen.

—The condition of the street crossings is terrible to behold. Pedestrians, who have occasion to be out after dark, would do well to carry a lantern with them. It would help matters to some extent.

—Commencing with to-morrow evening the Nellie Boyd dramatic company will appear at Philharmonic hall for a season of four nights. She comes highly recommended by the press of California and Oregon.

—The new Episcopal church now going up in James Bay district, is well under way. Workmen are at present engaged in putting shingles on the roof, after which work upon the interior will be commenced.

—A request has been tendered by a number of leading citizens to Mr. Ferdinand Urban, asking him to sing the German song "O Du mein Oesterreich," tonight at Philharmonic Hall. He will comply with the request.

—In the Police Court to-day the case of Nettie Holt, charged with cutting Robt. Basleben with a knife, was called. Several witnesses were called by the prosecution. The testimony of Dr. Ash, whom the injured man called upon, went to show that the wound was of no consequence. The woman was bound over in the sum of $500 bail.

—The "Lone Fisherman" dance, by Mr. John Williams, one of the leading members of the Castleton Company, was a prominent feature of last night's performance. He was heartily applauded, a compliment which he certainly deserved.

—Hon. Justice Crease believes that the magistrates would be doing well if they would give the little rascals of urchins that come before them for a hearing a flogging. That punishment was meted out recently to a prisoner at Winnipeg at the request of the Attorney General. Such a barbarous act is not likely to be repeated except in the yards of penitentiaries and on convicts only.

—The Colonist finds it a difficult matter to state the truth about the most trival occurrences. Having uttered a falsehood about "every sheet" and sickness in "nearly every house" it again reverts to the "respectable girls." Our contemporary has forgotten that "discretion is the best part of valour" and it should not persist in slandering the innocent fair ones of this city.

Gopher-Tail Currency.

Dakota has always been looked upon as a very strange section of country, but the following, taken from a paper published in Bismarck, the capital of that territory, seems to get away with any previous story regarding their customs: "Some of our counties pay five cents a tail for gophers and in La Moure they pass as currency. A man goes into a saloon and for his drink throws on the counter gopher tails. When the drawer is full they are taken to the county office and redeemed or paid out. It looks a little novel in church to see gopher narratives going into the contribution box."

Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of those connected with the Y.M.C.A. was held last evening in the Presbyterian church, for the purpose of considering the constitution as adopted by the committee and for the election of officers. After due consideration the constitution was adopted, and the following officers elected: President—Mr. B. W. Pearse, Vice-Presidents—Messrs. J. B. Ferguson, A. Clyde and R. Erskine; corresponding secretary—A. Flett; general secretary—Jas. Daley; treasurer—W. Walker; directors—Messrs. J. Meston, J. Cowper, J. Baker and T. Houghton.

Y. W. C. T. U.

The members of the above society held one of their regular meetings last evening. After the social part of the programme had been disposed of, addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Barss and another gentleman, and a reading by Mr. Nixon. Mrs. Bone read an essay, detailing the formation and work of the society. It was decided to assist the W. C. T. U. in their work which they have recently commenced in Esquimalt. A very pleasant evening was spent by those present.

FROM ALASKA.

The New Stamp Mill in Position. The Mining Outlook Promising.

TERRIBLE HARDSHIPS ENCOUNTERED.

Special Dispatch to THE TIMES.

NANAIMO, Nov. 25.—The Free Press of this evening will contain the following: The steamship Idaho, Capt. Carroll, arrived from Alaskan ports on Monday night and after taken on board 200 tons of Wellington coal for fuel, will sail this afternoon for Victoria and Portland. She brings down but a few passengers and experienced very bad weather during the entire trip. The Treadwell Company at Juneau are busily engaged in getting their new stamp mill in position. The foundation is already completed and it is expected that the mill will be in working order by the time the Idaho returns. Nothing is being done at the quartz mines and everything is covered with

WINTER'S DREARY MANTLE.

A letter had been received at Juneau from Dr. Evarts, the government explorer, on the great Yukon river. It stated that the explorer, on his trip, passed a number of miners on the bars and benches of the majestic river. All the miners informed him that the prospects were very good, and that they had done very well rocking on the many bars in the Yukon. This is rather a different report to that furnished by the Sheffien brothers, who stated that there was no gold on the river. During the summer Sniffen and Snyder, and three other miners started out to

EXPLORE THE COUNTRY

On the Juneau river, back of the fishing settlement of Loring. They went out well provided with provisions, and built a log house in which they cached a portion of the grub. They then proceeded further inland, and on returning, found that the Indians had burned the cabin, and stole the grub. It appears that there is an Indian chief in that neighborhood who claims all that section of country as a hunting reserve, and he does all he can to keep white men from prospecting that country. Owing to the loss of the provisions the party

SUFFERED GREAT HARDSHIPS

And arrived at Naha Bay in a starving condition. They report that they obtained some good prospects, but the country is fearfully rough and no one would be justified in going there to mine. To give an idea of the country, it may be stated that it took the party six days to make seven miles, having literally to dig their way through the snow. No news was received in reference to the Metlakahtla trouble, or from the Cassiar mines. Business is almost at a stand still all along the northern coast, but lively times are anticipated in the spring. Great anxiety was felt in Alaska in reference to the Presidential election in the United States.

The Castleton Company.

The third evening performance of the Kate Castleton company was given last night to a crowded house. No troupe has visited Victoria this season, which has been so successful in filling Philharmonic Hall with an appreciative audience, as the above company has done, ever since the opening night on Friday evening last. It proves, conclusively, that Victorians appreciate and enjoy good performances and will patronize such. The piece presented last evening was "Pop," an operatic musical comedy, somewhat after the style of "All at Sea." It was interesting from beginning to end. The song by the full company at the close of the first act was well received. In the first act Mr. Henry Phillips, as "Adolphus Pop," did some excellent acting and was loudly applauded. The love scene between "Sophia Belsize" (Miss Castleton) and "Adolphus Pop" (Mr. Phillips) was very good and gave both an opportunity of doing some very excellent acting, which these gifted artists took advantage of. The most enjoyable feature of the entertainment to all who appreciate good vocal music, was the duet between Miss Lynton and Mr. Urban, the selection being from the well-known and popular Italian opera, "Il Trovatore." The rich contralto of the former, combined with the unusually fine tenor of the latter, was indeed excellent, and did not fail to produce hearty applause, to which they responded by repeating the latter portion of the selection. Mr. Urban sang "Miserare" in a highly creditable manner. Miss Castleton sang several songs, after which she received the usual tremendous applause, and had she remained on the stage all night, singing songs the audience would apparently been contented to stay in their seats and listen. The applause she received was certainly flattering to say the least. The "Gobble" song from the opera "Mascott," between Miss Whitney and Mr. Calburt, was well sung and highly pleasing. The closing scene is good, and in fact, one cannot lose interest in the entertainment from the beginning to the end. The same piece will be given to-night, which closes their engagement in Victoria for the season. The opportunity of witnessing this interesting play by such a fine company should not be overlooked.

Wedding Bells.

This morning at 10 o'clock a select wedding took place at the View street Roman Catholic Church, which was largely attended. The contracting parties were Capt. Alex. McLean, of Nova Scotia, and Miss Lucy Dolphine, formerly of Louisana, U. S. At the hour above given, carriages containing the interested parties, together with their personal friends and invited guests, drove in front of the church and entered the building, shortly after which the ceremony was performed by Rev. Father J. M. Mandart. The bridesmaids consisted of Miss McDonald and Miss Mary Madigan, and the groomsmen were Messrs. John McDowell and William Burnes. The bride was given away by Mr. T. J Burnes. The wedding passed off in a highly pleasing manner, being quiet, but the service very impressive. After the ceremony was over, and while the bride and groom were walking down the aisle, the wedding march was beautifully played by Miss Martha Campbell, youngest daughter of Mr. Frank Campbell. The happy couple then received the congratulations of their many friends, who wished them a safe and prosperous journey through life.

MARINE NOTES.

A survey was made this morning of the British ship Lorenzo now in Esquimalt. She is leaking badly.

The British bark Hermine sailed from from Liverpool on the 5th inst for Victoria.

The steamer Alexander goes to Departure Bay to bring down the ship S. J. Spinney, coal laden for San Francisco.

The ship Richard III is at Port Townsend, waiting to be towed to Departure Bay where she loads coal for San Francisco.

Capt. Whitelaw thinks some of dragging for lost anchors in Departure Bay, but owing to the amount of ballast discharged by vessels, it is thought that it will be a difficult matter to recover any of them in those waters.

AUTUMN ASSIZES.

MONDAY, Nov. 24.

Queen vs. Ah Moo—Charged with assaulting Ah Gin, with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Ah Gin, Dr. Jackson, Ah Sam, Ah Paw and Officer Hough were sworn and gave similar evidence to that which was heard in Police Court.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION.

Queen vs. Joseph Devine—Charged with being in unlawful possession of clothing, the property of M. Conlon. Prisoner pleaded guilty.

UNLAWFULLY WOUNDING.

Queen vs. Robert Irving—Charged with feloniously and unlawfully wounding Agnes Irvine, on the 16th of August last. Plead "not guilty." Mr. Mills, of Fell & Mills, appeared to assist the prosecution, and Mr. J. P. Walls for the defence.

Mrs. Irvine, Mrs. Whiteleck, Dr. Jackson and Turnkey John Meyers gave evidence for the prosecution, and Agnes Irvine, J. Pollock and Andrew Thompson for the defence. After a short deliberation the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of unlawfully wounding. A recommendation of mercy was added.

TUESDAY, Nov. 25, 1884.

SECOND DAY.

Court opened in regular form at 10.15 a.m.

Mr. W. C. Robinson said he had not received any summons, and consequently had not attended. His Lordship said he would accept the explanation and ordered the matter to be investigated.

Queen vs. Townsend and Murphy—The Court said in the case of Townsend he would allow him to go and become an apprentice to Capt. Warren, and as he behaved with the captain, so the Court would deal with him. Judgment would not be passed on him at present. Boys were more precocious in these new countries than others. Parents allowed them to go out out at all hours and the children, were virtually masters. The prisoner was bound over in his own recognizances to appear for sentence. In the case of Murphy sentence was not passed.

MURDER.

Queen vs. C. J. Rodgers—Murder of William Stelly.

Jury—George Doughty foreman, Thomas Nicholson, George Pearce, Joseph Maynard, Henry Price, Harris Carter, J W. Roland, Richard Mattley, Thomas Inge, George Lindsay, Joseph Miller, John Jones, Wm. McKittrick.

Mr. Wilson, appointed to assist the Crown, and Mr. McColl, of New Westminster, for the defence.

Mr. Irving, deputy attorney general, explained to the jury the difference between murder and manslaughter, and outlined the evidence to be submitted.

Ah Tong was sworn and gave evidence, Ah Fook acting as interpreter. He knew the prisoner, worked at his house, and at the penitentiary. There were three people besides the prisoner, lived in the house, Roberts, Hickey and Stelly. Last saw Stelly alive at 6.35 a. m., on Tuesday. Did not remember the day of the month; saw him in the door of the passage. (A diagram of the building was shown the witness, and the different rooms pointed out by him.)

He saw the prisoner in his bedroom and saw Sterry in the washroom; heard two shots fired in the direction of the washroom; ran into Mr. Hickey's room and heard two more shots; saw Sterry's dead body when the policeman came.

To the Court—When he first saw the prisoner in the morning he had on a white shirt, but afterwards he was dressed as usual.

To a Juror—Called Hickey and told him that he heard some shots.

To the Court.—There was only one or two minutes between the two first and two last shots. Was standing in the stereroom when he heard the first shot; called Hickey, did not touch him.

Thomas Roberts, deposed that he was guard in the penitentiary; remembered the 4th of November last; resided in a house at Sapperton with Hickey, Rodges and Sterry. At about 6.30 a. m. on Tuesday, Nov. 4th, Sterry asked witness what time it was, both got up and started to dress; Sterry put on pants and boots and started to go to the washroom; was pulling on boots; heard a noise like a pistol shot coming from the kitchen or washhouse; immediately afterwards heard a noise like something falling, then heard another shot; heard two cries of "Oh, Oh," as of a person in great agony; ran to the door at the end of the passage and opened the door leading from the pantry to the kitchen and saw the prisoner standing between the cupboard and the stove; thought he asked the prisoner what was wrong; the prisoner said "Mind what you say Roberts, mind what you say," saw he had a pistol, and it was pointed at the witness; shut the door and then heard another shot; ran along the hall, off the platform and saw Mr. Hutchison and told him he had better come up. Mr. Hickey came out, and witness and he went to the washroom and saw Sterry lying dead on the floor with his head and shoulders against the door leading to the verandah; was present at the inquest and gave evidence; assisted in making the plan produced.

Cross-examined by Mr. McColl—The prisoner looked as if he was some excited; had known the prisoner since April, he was peaceful and quiet. To the court—Thought he was going to shoot when he pointed the pistol.

Robert Hickey, sworn—Said he lived at Sapperton, with Roberts, the prisoner, and the deceased, Sterry. At 6.20 a. m., on November 4th, was awakened by hearing firearms, and the Chinese boy running into the bedroom; thought he called; did not see the prisoner that morning, but saw the deceased after returning from New Westminster; saw Roberts standing on Mr. Hutchinson's landing.

Cross-examined by Mr. McColl—Had known the prisoner since July; he seemed to be of a quiet disposition.

To the Court—Did not hear any shots after awakening; the Chinese boy came into the room as the shot was fired; saw Roberts outside, barefooted and bareheaded, and knew there was something wrong; went with Roberts to the room; Roberts went into the room and said, "My God, he has killed him."

Dr. McSwann, sworn, deposed that he held an inquest of a body on the 4th of November; several were present; Mr. Roberts was present; the body was dressed in an undershirt, blue serge pants and a pair of boots. The cause of death was a bullet wound through the heart; found three bullets and believe there was a fourth. (Three bullets were produced and identified)

To the Court—Witness explained the different wounds. One bullet was found lying loosely in the capacity of the right lung. From the appearance of the wound would infer that it was made when the body was bent backwards. The head and left shoulder were lying against the outer door, the legs extended; another wound was under the left arm, the bullet was found imbedded in the spinal column. The third wound was about ten inches from the one in front and about seven inches from the one in the side, and about five inches from the spine; the entrance was in the back, and the direction was backwards toward the spine and upwards. The flattened bullet produced was taken from the head, having passed through the head and rested under the skin. The position must have been changed between each discharge. The shot in the heart would cause speedy death, but the man might have called out after receiving it.

To Mr. McColl—Two of the wounds could not have been inflicted while on the floor, the other two could have been, but the probabilities were against it.

To the Court—The wounds on the cheek and under the arm would be dangerous to life.

Court adjourned for an hour.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The grand jury reported True bill, McGuire; no bill, Sol Harrison; no bill, J Knox.

The trial of Rodgers was continued.

John Gordon, sworn, deposed, that he went to the penitentiary on the morning of November 4th; on the way, in company with McRoberts they met the prisoner, asked him if anything was wrong, he answered: "I laid that fellow out." Being asked "what fellow?" he said, "Sterry." He, the prisoner, said you had had better hurry home and see to him. Some of the guards took their pistols home others left them; the guards were not compelled to carry them.

To Mr. McColl—Have known the prisoner since May, he was not quarrelsome.

To the Court.—Did not think the prisoner and deceased had been on very good terms from something the prisoner had told him. He did not say much as he is of a retiring disposition. Prisoner had asked witness if Sterry had said anything about him, and on being told no, had said that Sterry had said he, the prisoner, had stolen something. Prisoner said he was getting hints of it from the officers of the penitentiary.

John McRoberts being sworn, corroborated the evidence of the preceding witness in regard to the conversation with the prisoner. The prisoner was good friends with the other guards.

To Mr. McColl—Rogers was a native of London, and he understood that he had been on the Metropolitan Police Court.

To a juryman—Went straight to the penitentiary to work.

To the Court—Did not see anything unusual in prisoner's manner when he met him.

To Mr. McColl—Did not take particular notice as to whether he was excited or not.

Jas. McNamara, assistant jailer, sworn, deposed that on the morning of November 4, the bell at the jail was rung. Went to the door and found the prisoner there. Asked him who he was, and he answered that he was one of the penitentiary guards. He handed the witness a pistol and said he had shot a man, and had come to give himself up, as he wanted to die like a man. Took the pistol; there were four chambers unloaded and one loaded; bottled him up in one of the buildings; searched the prisoner and found some money. Thought he had probably been on a spree. He said the man he had shot was Sterry.

Mr. Moresley sworn deposed that on Quilley accosting Rogers and said "This is a bad business you have got into." He said, "yes, but he deserved all he got. I hope he is dead." Then cautioned him not to say anything, as it might be used against him.

The prisoner made a statement as to the difficulties between Sterry and himself. The morning of the shooting, Sterry had said to him in the washroom "You long son of a—, why did you not throw that water out." He then shot him.

The case is proceeding as we go to press.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[THE TIMES wishes it to be distinctly understood that it is in no way responsible for, and does not necessarily agree with its correspondents.]

His truth at all times firmly stood
And shall from age to age endure."
—(Scottish version of Psalms of David.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

Sir,—A summary is now attempted of Rev. G. H. Greer's discourse on Sunday afternoon on the subject "Out of Methodism into Unitarianism." Mr. Greer sufficiently set forth his own mental growth, stating that at eighteen he had taken up with phrenology and the successive waves of metaphysical thought, while at the same time acquiring what knowledge he could of the wonderful modern progress of science in the world of matter. By reading of the progress of psbychology in its latter day aspect he became satisfied that man is by nature constituted a religious being. He also studied religious systems, and at length to the delight of his parents, then and still sincere Methodists, he commenced to study for the ministry of that denomination. His field was Oregon, west of the Willamette river, his next, Tilurston county, Washington Territory, with Olympia as a centre. During his ministration in the north, he gradually ceased to believe one after another of various points, deemed essential by the orthodox, and, as he never advocated a cast off dogma, he at last came to be regarded as heretic. In 1873, leaving the Methodists, in the good feeling, which he still retains, he passed a year travelling through Washington Territory as agent for the American Bible Society; during which period he mixed with men of many minds. Next, desiring a quiet, domestic life, favorable for study and the education of his sons, he took a farm near Tacoma. Selling the farm after a time and sending his family to Tacoma, he went east, qualified as a Unitarian minister in Pennsylvania, and late last August or early in September, gave his first discourse in Tacoma in a hall controlled by the Y. M. C. A., which, by an edict from Portland, has lately been refused to him. To the Liberals of Victoria Mr. Greer eloquently pointed out that, in parting with dogmatic envelopes, religious truth, the kernel of Christanity, its sublime morality and dependence on the All-father, remained to the world, and became more clear, expressive and intelligible as applicable to daily life and conduct. To the Liberals the good man earnestly gave the parting advice, that by their deeds they should evidence what they are, that they should get to work with the Sunday school, etc., and above all that they should not retaliate when called names by those opposed to their work. Believing that they enjoy superior light, Liberals should show the fruits thereof in their acts. Much more said by Mr. Greer is worthy of record. Seated on the platform I could see that while he spoke an audience of about one hundred in number was held in wrapt attention.

Sewage.

EDITOR TIMES—SIR:—Much needed consideration is at present devoted to getting away the sewerage of Victoria. Its discharge into the harbor is alone spoken of. In a town spreading over so large an area as Victoria, would it not be well to have some point where sewerage could, by admixture of chloride of lime or otherwise, be disinfected and deodorized so as to be of profit to the municipality as well as to farmers and gardeners.

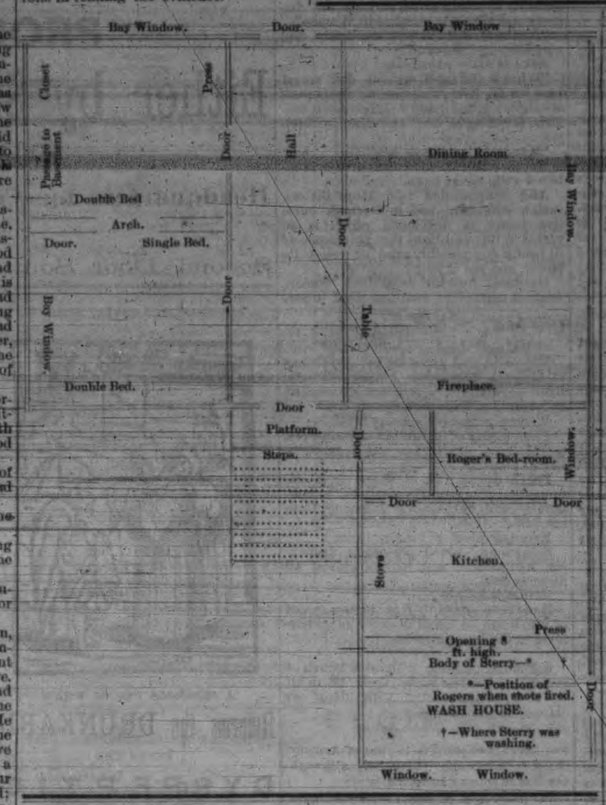
The Rogers Murder Trial.

The trial of the prisoner Rogers for the shooting of his fellow guard at New Westminster, on the 4th inst., is in progress at the Assize Court here to-day, having been sent over to Victoria by the authorities in consequence of the strong feeling that prevailed in that city against the prisoner. The case being an interesting one, we produce the following diagram of the building in which the tragic event took place for the guidance of our patrons in reading the evidence.



PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. C. H. Hayward went to New Westminster to-day.

Mr. Thomas Dunn left this morning on a business trip to the Mainland.

Mr. R. L. Cawston, of Osoogos, leaves for Stratford, Ont., to-morrow.

Mr. J. A. T. Coton arrived from the east to-day by the North Pacific.

Mr. Frank S. Barnard left this morning on a business trip to the Mainland.

Mr. Fletcher, P. O. Inspector, was a passenger this morning by the Yosemite for New Westminster.

Amongst the arrivals yesterday from the east were Mr. Thomas Campbell and wife, of Strathroy, Ont.

Mr. John Kirkland, President of the British Columbia Agricultural Society, returned to the Mainland to-day.

Mr. McKillican, one of the contractors for the asylum at New Westminster, was a passenger on the Yosemite to-day.

Mr. W. Finlay Hall, of Seattle, a real estate dealer, was amongst the arrivals by the Anderson this afternoon. He is a guest at the Oriental.

Mrs. Nicholes, relict of the late Dr Nicholes, who has been a resident of this city for many years, died this morning at her residence, Fort street.

Mr. Turner, of the firm of Messrs. Moors & Turner, surveyors and civil engineers of New Westminster, who was in this city in connection with Mr. Roger's trial, returned by the Yosemite this morning.

Col. Stevens, U. S Consul, with Mrs. Stevens, returned this afternoon. Miss Stevens has not yet completed her round of visits to friends at places on the Sound. The ladies will leave Victoria in about ten days for the Sierra Madre Villa in the Pasadena, near Los Angeles, Southern California.

No Bill.

In the case of Captain Worth, charged with having stolen $240 from Samuel Evans, the grand jury decided that there was no evidence and accordingly threw out the bill.

AMOUR, THE PORK KING

RULING THE PROVISION MA[illegible]

The Story of Transactions Which Brou[illegible] a Colossal Fortune—Chicago's R[illegible] Speculator in "Hog Fru[illegible]cts.

[Chicago Cor. N. Y. Sun.]

Speaking of his last great pork d[illegible], which netted him $2,000,00[illegible], Mr. P. D. Armour said to-day that the result gave him peculiar satisfaction, because he had been raided by the bears of New York and Chicago and had beaten them off. He declared most emphatically that he was not a speculative trader in the sense that the term is generally understood. He always buys pork when it is cheap; but he says that he never buys it for the sake of selling again on the speculative market. When he finds the market attacked he always protects his property. Thus far the bear attacks upon him have resulted very favorably to him. He made $3,500,000 out of one five years ago, and the $2,000,000 just pocketed as the result of his summer's business makes him feel very comfortable financially.

"If the bears had let me alone," he said to-day, "I should not have made this money. I am engaged in a legitimate business, buying and selling for consumption. I have over 10,000 men in my employ, and my sole business is to distribute the product in the markets of the world."

When the raid was made on this market in May, Armour had more than $12,000,000 worth of pork on hand, and, of course, he was vitally interested in maintaining prices. He bought everything that the short sellers threw on the market, and, having almost unlimited capital, he found no difficulty in carrying all the stuff.

Close observers of the pork king's methods say that his great corners invariably follow some great public calamity or widespread panic. He buys when other people have lost confidence in values, and limits his purchases only to the amount of the offerings. In 1879, when it was announced that yellow fever had appeared at Memphis, a panic occurred here in pork products, which are largely consumed at the South. The market dropped $4.37 a barrel in two days. The collapse broke nearly all of the Southern speculators, who were, as a rule, on the long side. The natural result of overtrading on the short side was that the market was cornered in October, the bears settling their pork with Armour at $13 a barrel, he having bought for $7 and $8.

In 1880 the short side of pork again appeared attractive to speculators, notwithstanding repeated unpleasant experiences with Armour. The stock on hand was large, and on the 20th of April pork sold down to $9.25. It was then that Armour took hold and laid the foundations for his gigantic deals of the summer. Beginning at this figure, he bought all the way up to $13 in July. During the next three months he cornered the market for each month. The shorts in August settled at $17, in September at $18, and in October at $19. The total quantity of pork handled by Armour was not less than 3,000,000 barrels, and the number of shorts out was large, covering more than 600,000 barrels. It was a mammoth deal, and involved buying all the pork in the world. In spite of his immense capital, he would have been ruined had not the demand for pork been heavy and the public persistent in speculating on the long side.

This same good fortune has followed this successful trader in all his ventures. His gigantic legitimate business makes it easy for him to dispose of the product, and his superabundant capital enables him to protect his enormous holdings whenever anybody raids him. The deal which has just closed up so satisfactory to himself resembles the greater one of 1880, and the money which he has taken out of many speculators is a clear gift.

While strenuously insisting that he is not now a speculator or gambler, Mr. Armour admits that he made his first great fortune by speculation. Just before the close of the war, when Armour was a packer in Milwaukee and pork was selling at forty dollars, he dreamed one night that there would be a great tumble in prices. On the way down town the next morning he stopped at his partner's house and told him that he thought pork was too high. "That's my opinion, too," said Mr. Plankinton. After a little further conversation it was agreed that Armour should take the first train for New York and sell all he could. He went, sold pork at forty dollars, and never took it in until it struck $18, making over $1,000,000 by the operation. But he had great difficulty in carrying out his plan. The New York agents of Plankinton & Armour were Wallace & Wicks, at that time one of the heaviest firms in the trade. The big packers all over the country were bulls on provisions. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, and St. Louis packers being persistent buyers. Wallace & Wicks did business for all of them, and were bulls themselves. They endeavored by every means in their power to dissuade Armour from selling pork, but he steadfastly adhered to the object of his visit, refused to go to their meetings, and would have nothing to do with the pool. For about three months Armour was the terror of the provision market, and when he got ready to go house prices had come down $5. Just as he was leaving Kingan, a prominent bull operator, said he wanted to make just one more trade.

"I'll sell you 1,000 barrels," said Armour.

"I'll take it," said the other. "When pork sells at $60 a barrel you will want it back."

"I'll deliver you that pork," replied Armour, "when it sells at $18."

The packers, with few exceptions, were ruined by the break, and Armour became the richest packer in the world. He admits that the operation was nothing but a huge gamble. If the closing struggles of the rebellion had been delayed a few months longer he would have been ruined. As it was, he was favored by circumstances over which he could have no possible control. "That was the only risk I ever took," he says.

In proof of his assertion that he is a legitimate trader, Armour likes to point to his office on Washington street, wherein are employed 150 clerks and accountants, eighty of whom are engaged exclusively in making out bills. He has an agent in every important city in the world. Each morning messages are telegraphed to his representatives all over the country giving the prices and condition of the market here, and each afternoon his agents telegraph back the transactions of the day. Mr. Armour himself is an indefatigable worker. He rises every morning at five, breakfasts at six, and is at his office at seven. One clerk has preceded him to open his cablegrams. The remainder of the force appear at eight. Each morning there is placed on his desk a ticket like a visiting card. It contains a statement of the amount of cash in bank, which is seldom less than $1,000,000. The capital of Armour & Co. is nominally $10,000,000, although the firm is worth $25,000,000.

Mr. Armour is a short, thick-set man, with a smooth-shaven face and a big head. He is a native of Watertown, N. Y., and first determined to move West when he was expelled from school for taking a girl out riding in school hours.

A SMART AND USEFUL DOG.

He Saves the Lives of Five Cows and Kills Two Blacksnakes.

[Middletown (N. Y.) Cor. N. Y. Times.]

William Titsworth, Esq., living in what is known as "the Clove," a delightful part of the roadway a short distance this side of Deckertown, near this place, is the possessor of a large and powerful Newfoundland dog called Rover. Of large and commanding stature, Rover has a kindly eye, and is one of the most intelligent beasts in the country. One Sunday last winter, when the family returned from Deckertown, where they had been attending church, Rover did not greet them as was his invariable custom. The members of the family were quick to notice his absence. After they had been but a short time in the house they were startled by the low baying of Rover, and on opening the door the dog rushed in on them, and going over to where Mr. Titsworth stood he looked up appealingly in his face, and gave utterance to low sounds of distress and tugged at his master's coat. At Mrs. Titsworth's suggestion a lantern was procured and Rover was followed to the stables, where five cows had been yoked together in their stalls. A heavy beam had fallen out of its socket and the cows, when found, were all prostrated with this beam over their necks. A few hours more and the whole number would have perished. They were specially liberated from their perilous position.

This is but one of the many instances where Rover has displayed his rare intelligence. When Mr. Titsworth is at home the dog seldom notices Mrs. Titsworth, but when his master is away from home Rover follows her and watches her every move with jealous care. A few days ago the lady planted a few Virginia creeper vines down in the lower end of the garden, for the purpose of having them cover an old water wheel that many years ago served to do the churning on the large farm. Yesterday she went to see how the vines were prospering, when she was horrified at seeing an immense blacksnake coiled up on the water wheel, apparently sunning itself. The lady was startled, but quickly regaining her courage she called for Rover, and the faithful beast was soon by her side. Pointing out the reptile to the dog, without a single utterance, Mrs. Titsworth stepped aside to witness the fray. Although thirteen years old, Rover is still very game, and in an instant he attacked the snake with a ferocity quite remarkable for one of his age, and in a few minutes it lay dead on the grass. Mrs. Titsworth was about to leave the place when she heard a hissing noise, and, looking around, she saw the mate of the dead snake coiled up and ready to strike her. Rover, although nearly exhausted from his combat, quickly attacked the second snake and succeeded in despatching it. In a few minutes countless numbers of small snakes issued from the mother snake and sought refuge in the grass. These small snakes varied in length from two to four inches, and displayed great activity. The old snakes were measured by a farm hand. One was found to be six feet and a few inches and the other nearly seven feet in length.

Did Pretty Well.

[Pittsburg Chronicle and Telegraph.]

First young lady—Why, Jennie, you dear little sweet! I've not met you in a year. Where have you been? "To Chicago, Laura." "And did you like it out there? You married, didn't you?" "O, yes." "Did you do well?" "Pretty well, though not so well as I expected. The court only allowed me $150 a month alimony." "What a shame!"

No Need of a Directory.

[Norristown Herald.]

According to the language of the eye, "black eyes show a passionate, lively temperament." The signification of a black and blue eye is not given. Perhaps it is not necessary, as it generally shows a quarrelsome, poke-your-nose-into-other-people's-business disposition on the part of the owner.

A Hint to Amateurs.

Vital Questions!!!!

Ask the most eminent physician
Of any school what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?
And they will tell you unhesitatingly "Some form of Hops!!!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:
"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"
"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu!!!"
Ask the same physicians
"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:
"Mandrake! or Dandelion!!!"
Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable,
And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is Harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Patients
"Almost dead or nearly dying"
For years, and given up by physicians of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, severe coughs, called consumption, have been cured.
Women gone nearly crazy!!!!!
From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness, and various diseases peculiar to women.
People drawn out of shape from excruciating pangs of rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula, Erysipelas!
Salt rheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion, and in fact almost all diseases frail
Nature is heir to
Have been cured by Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.
